Historic Documents Related to the Administrative Procedure Act of 1946

The Bremer-Kovacs Collection: Historic Documents Related to the Administrative Procedure Act of 1946 is a comprehensive database designed to make the APA's history more accessible and understandable. The Collection begins in 1929 with the APA's first predecessors: bills to regulate administrative procedure that were introduced in Congress but never enacted. The database's coverage expands in 1933, tracking heightened interest in administrative reform following President Roosevelt's first inauguration and spurred on by the New Deal expansion of the federal administrative apparatus. The database includes a comprehensive legislative history of the Walter-Logan Bill of 1940, which Congress approved but President Roosevelt vetoed, as well as later bills that culminated in the Administrative Procedure Act of 1946 (APA). Compiled by Kathryn E. Kovacs, Emily S. Bremer, and Charlotte D. Schneider.

The database is rounded out with various tools to help researchers navigate the database, understand the documents in their rich historical context, and quickly identify the material most relevant to the user's precise interests. A Timeline charting the Act's passage is included within the database; access the full, comprehensive timeline prepared by Research Editor Charlotte Schneider here. Additionally, the Editors have written an essay that provides a concise narrative of the long road to the APA's adoption, putting the database's core documents in their proper historical context along the way.

"Unlike collections available on Westlaw and Proquest Congressional, most legislative histories I find on HeinOnline are actual treatises compiled by experts familiar with the legislation. This means that beyond the specific bill that becomes law, they include previous related bills and congressional reports and hearings related thereto. In contrast, I find that your competition seems to provide material that relates only to the final bill that becomes law. One cannot overstate the importance of this distinction for complete and thorough analysis of Congressional policy."

37. U.S. Presidential Impeachment Library

To enhance its collection of presidential material, HeinOnline is pleased to introduce the U.S. Presidential Impeachment Library. Organized around the four affected presidents, this collection brings together a variety of documents both contemporaneous and asynchronous to each president's impeachment, presenting both a snapshot of the political climate as each played out and the long view history has taken of past proceedings.

Congressional research service reports round out a general discussion of presidential impeachment, and a curated list of scholarly articles, external links, and a bibliography provide avenues for further research on this topic. We are especially pleased to include the ever-growing resource Whistleblower Complaint on Ukraine, compiled by Kelly Smith at UC San Diego, which brings together official documents related to the whistleblower complaint and impeachment inquiry of Donald Trump. This library will continue to grow as we add new material, particularly as it becomes available for the current investigation into Donald Trump.

"I have to say, no one is more surprised than I am at the amount of use HeinOnline gets here at Augsburg. When you first contacted me a few years ago, I was reluctant to even set up a trial because we don't have a law school or even a paralegal program. When you offered to do a 6-month trial, in all honesty, I thought "sure, we'll try it for 6 months and then cancel when no one uses it." Boy, was I wrong! Every month I look at our usage stats and am pleasantly surprised to see how many articles were downloaded. We calculate cost per use based on # of downloads for all of our full-text resources (in the case of HeinOnline that translates to articles), and HeinOnline is consistently among our 10 lowest CPU resources."
